

WELL KNOWN PILOTS FIGHTING TO GET "IN THE MONEY" IN NATIONAL TOUR

PICTURED above are contestants in the 1930 National Air tour, who arrived in Wichita yesterday afternoon from Garden City. These pilots are not "in the money" since they are not among the first 10, but they are fighting each day to gain the elusive points in the scoring system. In the upper row, from left to right, are Larry Ruch, thirteenth, American Eagle; Jack Story, eleventh, Rearwin Ken-Royce; Barton Stevenson, twelfth, Monocoupe, and Walter J. Carr, fifteenth, Cabinaire. Lower row, left to right, H. C. Mumert, seventeenth, Mercury; Charles Meyers, sixteenth, Great Lakes; E. L. Rhodes, Wright Aeronautic, non-contestant; George Meissner, eighteenth, Sikorsky amphibian, and J. S. McDonnell, inventor and pilot of the "Doodle Bug."—Staff photo.
